Farewell FROM ASHLEY CALLINGBULL

I joined Miss Universe Canada to use my voice for impact. Growing up, I was inspired by women who turned visibility into advocacy and now, I'm stepping into that power. This isn't just a competition; it's a global stage to champion confidence, diversity, and change. I'm here to inspire others, especially young girls, to believe in their strength, own their dreams, and lead with purpose.

As I pass on the Miss Universe Canada crown, I do so with a full heart, a joyful spirit, and a fierce sense of pride. This year has been one of the most empowering experiences of my life and I will carry its lessons, its love, and its legacy with me forever.

When I stepped onto that stage, I wasn't just representing myself. I was standing for every Indigenous woman and proudly carried generations of strength, resistance, beauty, and culture with me. And when I was crowned, it wasn't just a personal victory, it was a moment of triumph for all of us. A moment that said: we belong here. We always have.

This journey has shown me that representation isn't just about being seen it's about being heard, being respected, and being celebrated. I've had the privilege of using this platform to speak truth, challenge injustice, and spark conversations that matter. The people who've told me my courage gave them permission to step into their own power. That's the real crown. That's the legacy.

To everyone who believed in me, lifted me up, and walked this path with me, thank you from the bottom of my heart. You've made this year unforgettable. To my parents, sisters, mentor Natalie, life long friend and coach Andrew and all my sponsors, you have helped me make this dream a reality and I can't thank you enough.

This isn't a goodbye, it's a celebration of what's been, and a powerful beginning to what's next. Because this crown may leave my head, but the fire it lit in my soul will never go out.

With joy, love, and pride,

Ashley Callingbull
